PROFILE

Critically acclaimed actor and theatre director specializing in text-based impact theatre. With global perspective and strong passion for developing and directing new works, my approach is Stanislavski/Uta Hagen-based and influenced by years of training as an actor. Trained in Stanislavski, Meisner, and classical acting (LAMDA), my work explores heightened realism, epic theatre, and post-dramatic expression of classical and contemporary text as a director. Earned a Master of Arts in Directing from one of Britain's most prestigious conservatoires, the Bristol Old Vic.

HIGHLIGHTS

- Recently directed the London premiere of Adam Rapp's Pulitzer Prize nominated Red Light Winter at The Turbine Theatre
- Founding artistic director of Diverse City Theater, a non-profit Off Off Broadway theater company
- Curated and developed 8 seasons of programming producing 18 original plays, 12 productions from 2005 - 2012:

"THEATRE AT ITS TRANSFORMING BEST"

NOON DAY SUN

"VICTOR LIRIO is one of the finest directors I have worked with in all of my twenty-five years of being produced in New York's Off and Off-Off Broadway Theatre.

"From the very onset of meeting and working with Victor, his penetrating insight guided me in finding and shaping the nuances I sought to convey in my script. Victor was able to probe the play's thematic intentions in such a gifted manner, and helped me realize themes of race, class, and ethnic identity that NOON DAY SUN portrays. His perceptions about specific scenes, character moments, and transitions that warranted further exploration and revision all facilitated my polish of the final draft of the now published full-length play.

NOON DAY SUN was nominated for the prestigious August Wilson Auelco Award 2008 for Best Dramatic Production of the Year and Best Play, received critics choice recommendations from NBC Television and Time-out New York's 'notable plays for the 2008 summer season."

-CASSANDRA MEDLEY
Award-winning playwright

REVIEWS

"Strong ensemble work directed by Victor Lirio ... RACE MUSIC's examination of race's continued, if shifting, influence in America adds perspective to that national conversation that just doesn't seem to end."
-NEW YORK TIMES CRITICS CHOICE

"Directed by Victor Lirio with a tough mind and sensitivity ... Bodow's music reaches its crescendoing coda ...
A POLISHED ENSEMBLE!" -Theatermania

"Under the unblinking direction of Victor Lirio, this drama explores how racism insidiously infiltrates our culture and contaminates our private and personal lives ... SOLID ACTING ENSEMBLE."
-Theatrescene.net

"Under Victor Lirio's lyrical direction, Gin Hammond manages to artfully show Zena's conflict, and not just her artifice; Obie Award Winner Ron Cephas Jones, using Reuben's past shame to motor his present determination, gives a performance of fierce honesty ... Deftly layering melodrama over a headier look at the invention of identity, NOON DAY SUN shines brightly."
- Aaron Riccio, Time Out New York Critics Choice (featured on NBC's Saturday Morning Show)

"Seductive!"
- NEW YORK TIMES

"Director Victor Lirio sure-handedly directs Cassandra Medley's stark material ... "
- David Finkle, Theatermania

"I see at least 100 shows a year, but rarely do I walk out of the theatre feeling as uplifted as I did after seeing this provocative, beautifully acted play Monday night. It was the rare experience of seeing a production that is first rate in every way. NOON DAY SUN is theatre at its transforming best.

"Medley's play, under the insightful direction of Victor Lirio, is involving from start to finish. NOON DAY SUN gives human faces and human hearts to the issues of racism and the search for identity."
- Retta Blaney, Drama Desk Critic

"NOON DAY SUN SHINES A BRIGHT LIGHT! Elegantly directed by Victor Lirio, all of the characters are richly detailed and three-dimensional ... one of this season's early great performances!"
- Scott Siegel, Talkinbroadway.com/Drama Desk Critic
